German Counterattacks Fail To Stop Russians

Reds Gain Nine Miles in Battle To Seize Latvia

Soviets Preparing Link with Allies

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP)—Slowed but not stopped by desperate German counterattacks all along the eastern front, powerful Russian armies yesterday ground out nine to twelve-mile gains in the battle of Latvia, renewed the offensive northeast of Warsaw, and climbed higher into the Carpathians toward Czechoslovakia.

In telling of the day's furious fighting and hard-won advances, the Soviet midnight communiqué and an early-morning supplement over and over again used the phrases "stubborn resistance" and "repeated counterattacks," but said that in no case had these Nazi efforts succeeded.

Aged Dig Trenches

Thoroughly alarmed, the Germans drafted every able-bodied man and woman from fifteen to sixty-five to dig trenches against the imminent entry of the Red army into the "holy" soil of East Prussia.

It was there, too, that they put in the most frequent counterattacks east of the border town of Schirwind and northwest of Mariampole and on the flank of the widening Latvian corridor that is threatening Memelland.

But the Moscow radio, in a special air forces broadcast today, said all the digging would do the Germans little good, for Soviet planes, with a sixfold superiority in numbers, were attacking the Nazi defenses at will.

Plan Link with Allies

"Soviet troops will advance farther and farther to the west until they link up with our Allies."

Up and down the 1,000-mile front the counterattacking Germans lost more than 3,800 killed yesterday, said the Soviet war bulletin, while another 120 enemy tanks were destroyed or knocked out. It was the ninth consecutive day that the Russians had recorded loss of more than 100 tanks by the Nazis.

In the north, the Russians reported capture of more than 280 towns in twin drives northward within sixty-four miles of Riga. Along both sides of the Daugava river, the Russians recorded there were fifteen kilometers (about nine miles).

In the corridor across Latvia to the sea a score of miles west of Riga, which has trapped 200 German armies of possibly 250,000 men, the Russians reported they took area towns in westward advances of about twelve miles. Memel, one of Hitler's early prizes of bloodless loot, lay about eighty miles to the southwest.

Take Key Junctions

East of Warsaw and northwest of Siedlce the Russians reported that they had "renewed their offensive after powerful artillery and air preparation," taking the key road junctions of Wengrow and Sokolow, twenty and twenty-two miles northwest and north of Siedlce. These were paving the way for eventual all-out assault on Warsaw, already besieged for ten days.

Americans Hold Most of Guam

By LEIF ERIKSSON

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, Aug. 9 (AP)—American forces completed their conquest of Guam today except for a small inland area near Pati Point, where surviving Japanese were surrounded. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Pati Point is at the northeast corner of Guam, the first American island possession seized by Japan. The campaign to retake Guam began on July 20 by the Third and Fourth Marine divisions and the Seventy-seventh Infantry division.

The assault troops landed at two points on the western coast, rapidly overran the lower half of the island and pushed north to virtually complete reconquest of the island on the twentieth day of the campaign.

Mexican Laborers Help Railroad

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP)—B. W. Tyler, manager of the Maryland division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, today said the importation last spring of approximately 600 Mexican laborers enabled the company to carry out an extensive repair and maintenance program.

"These men are the hardest kind of workers and have gotten along well with Americans. How to have the services of these men as long as the manpower shortage continues," Tyler asserted.

Rep. Luce Renominated:

Republican Congresswoman Hits Out at New Deal and Communists

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 9 (AP)—United States Representative Clare B. Luce was renominated by acclamation for a second term tonight by the Fourth District Republican Congressional convention and she immediately hit out at the administration in a speech which bristled with criticism of its policies and a condemnation of communism.

Pledging herself to a "clear cut, definite labor policy," Mrs. Luce, at one point in her acceptance, asserted the War Manpower Commission had "fumbled and flinched" the manpower problem; that the new WMC ceiling plan was a "labor draft," and that Communist interests had rooted themselves deep in the Democratic party.

She called administration officials "rascals," "do-gooding New Deal bureaucrats" and termed President Roosevelt a "super-duper, highly cultured political boss—not a real dictator."

500 Nazi Subs Sunk by Allies, Report Asserts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—More than 500 German submarines have been sunk by the Allies since the start of the war, it was reported in a joint Anglo-American statement.

Issued under authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, the statement added that Nazi U-boats were "ineffective during July, a month which has been so important for the success of continental operations."

Many Sunk in July
The report said that the number of German submarines destroyed in July was "substantially greater than the number of merchant ships sunk."

The joint statement follows: "The number of German U-boats sunk during the war now exceeds 500. It is therefore understandable that the U-boats still operating are extremely cautious. Their efforts have been ineffective during July, a month which has been so important for the success of continental operations."

"The number of U-boats destroyed has been substantially greater than the number of merchant ships sunk. Seventeen U-boats have been sunk while attempting to interfere with out cross-channel traffic since the first landing of the army of liberation."

Many U-Boats Remain
The U-boat fleet is still of impressive size. Nevertheless the U-boats remain the hunted rather than the hunters. They have been attacked from the Arctic to the Indian ocean, aircraft playing a great part with the surface forces. This pressure will be maintained until all chances of revival of the U-boat campaign are killed, whatever may be the new devices and methods developed by the enemy.

"The Nazi claims of sinkings continue to be grossly exaggerated. For instance, their claim for June, the latest month for which complete figures are available, was an exaggeration of 1,000 per cent."

Political Angle Probed in Phila. Transit Strike

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9 (AP)—Federal Judge George A. Welsh charged a special grand jury of eleven men and nine women today to search out any political motive that may have been involved in the calling of Philadelphia's wildest transit strike, declaring he could not believe that the strikers were actuated solely "by the thought that eight negroes were going to be upgraded."

"I hope it (racial prejudice) was not the real reason," he said.

War against Japan Just Beginning, Returning Correspondent Asserts

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP)—Howard M. Norton, Baltimore Sunpapers war correspondent back home nursing an injury suffered in the Guam invasion, said tonight that the war against Japan was just beginning.

In an interview appearing in the early editions of tomorrow's Sun, Norton—veteran of a year of Pacific combat—said "the taking of Tokyo would not make the slightest difference toward the outcome of the war, except that Tokyo is taken."

He said that under the Japanese autonomous military set-up, a division commander could decide for himself whether he would surrender, regardless of his government's decision. Thus, the Allies might have to destroy each of thousands of enemy detachments individually regardless of any Tokyo surrender.

At another point she described the Smith-Connally act, framed to prevent strikes in wartime—as "the natural spawn of Mr. Roosevelt's feeble and bilious labor policy."

The blonde congresswoman, who will oppose 29-year-old Attorney Margaret E. Connors of Bridgeport at the polls next November, also criticized the present cabinet, saying that the administration had "failed to appoint and vest with authority a competent secretary of labor."

Concerning postwar economy, Mrs. Luce observed that "the present administration is just as incapable of preventing a new depression, as it was incapable of curbing the last one."

"There is not a single thoughtful man in Washington today," she declared, "who does not tremble for the economic welfare of the country if the present administration stays in power."

Florence Facing Water Shortage; Looting Spreads

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ROME, Aug. 9 (AP)—The city of Florence, tightly locked in a deadly vise formed by the British and German armies, was reported facing a series of food and water shortages and beset by looting and outbursts of civil strife today.

While military operations in and around Florence were limited to patrol forays, machinegun positions lined both banks of the Arno river along its course through the city.

Food Supply Cut
The battle lines had cut the city off from food supply from the surrounding countryside, one of Italy's richest agricultural regions, and no food had been distributed on the German side of the city since last Friday.

German destruction of the power plant had deprived the city of light and caused an alarming water supply situation, with black marketeers demanding twenty lire (twenty cents) for a bottle of water.

The Tuscan capital has a long history of civil strife and is a hotbed of both Fascist and anti-Fascist extremists. Fighting between these elements was known to have broken out in at least one neighborhood.

Hoodlums Loot City
Looting in some sections, both by German soldiers and Italian hoodlums, also was reported.

The enemy still held bridgeheads in two loops of the river east and west of the city. The first extends five and one-half miles from a point four miles east of the city's edge.

The other is between Empoli and Monte Lupo eleven miles west of Florence, with the British holding Monte Lupo at the east end of the loop, but with German guns commanding Empoli.

There was virtually no change anywhere along the front. Italian battlefront except in the area nine miles north of Arezzo, southeast of Florence, where the British recaptured Monte Grillo and beat off five enemy counterattacks in a furious melee.

Von Papen Reported Arrested in Berlin

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Berlin radio said today that Franz von Papen, former German ambassador to Turkey, had arrived in Germany from Ankara, following Turkey's severing of relations with the Reich.

The broadcast said von Papen would report "immediately" to Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

A report from Istanbul said a close personal friend of von Papen's in Turkey had received word that the former ambassador had been arrested immediately after he entered the Reich. The informant, an official of an international bank, had no details.

The studio admits some dramatic license is taken with the story of Woodrow Wilson, but that on the whole it is a faithful representation. The Fibber McGee and Molly picture is a comedy in their radio style in which they go to Washington and encounter the usual problems associated with the capital these days.

RKO says the "possibly objectionable" feature in "Heavenly Days" is a dream sequence in which Fibber floats into the Senate chamber, where he delivers a speech urging every American to vote.

The correspondent said that morale was high among American forces in the Pacific—they "know the job they are up against." But he continued, many of them felt that the people back home considered the Pacific war a minor-league affair.

2,000 American Bombers Attack Hitler's Plants

Oil Facilities, Sub Pens Raided

By NED NORDNESS

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP)—More than 2,000 American heavy bombers thundered from British and Italian bases against Hitler's battered war plants and oil facilities in Germany, Hungary and Yugoslavia today, while RAF Lancasters packing 12,000-pound bombs smashed at submarine pens in the U-boat base of La Pallice on the West French coast.

The Lancasters' attack was part of a concentrated effort to wipe out German Atlantic bases. The La Pallice base, where submarine fuel tanks were attacked, is south of the battle area, in the vicinity of La Rochelle. Already in this concentrated campaign Le Havre has been rendered virtually useless, and the Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire bases are about to fall into American hands.

Stuttgart Attacked
While tactical forces streamed over enemy lines in France in a bridge-busting campaign, jamming Nazi communications, up to 750 British-based United States Eighth Air Force Liberators and Portresses, with equal fighter escort, ploughed through murky weather against Stuttgart, "the Detroit of Germany" and other targets in Southern Germany. A rail yard was among these.

The escorting Lightnings, Thunderbolts and Mustangs reported thirty-three enemy planes shot down in aerial combat. Eighteen bombers and two fighters were missing from the British-based attacks on Germany. A communiqué said none of the German interceptors was able to penetrate the fighter screen around the bombers.

Destroy Freight Trains
Fighter escorts of both heavy bomber fleets said German air opposition was not intense and contradicted German radio reports of fierce battles in the air. The American fighters dipped down from bombing altitudes and strafed enemy railroads, shooting up thirty planes on the ground and destroying fifty locomotives and 137 freight cars in their thrust from the west.

The weather over the French front was favorable for the aerial blows at the Germans' communication system.

Attack from Italy
More than 500 heavies of the Fifteenth air force struck from Italy at Nazi aircraft and oil resources including the Almas Puzio refinery on the Danube thirty miles west of Budapest, a Messerschmitt assembly plant at Győr and airfields at Vecsés and Tokol in Hungary as well as rail yards at Brod in Yugoslavia.

The daily smash at bridges, designed to cut off German reinforcements in France, was led by large formations of United States Ninth Air Force Marauders and Havocs.

Afternoon they bombed five railway bridges over the Oise north-east of Paris and a sixth at Chartres. On the Oise the bridge-busters went to Pontreuve, Verberie, Chauny, Compiègne and Beaumont-sur-Oise.

The Springfield Motor Fire Company, just across the road from Knappenberger's home, organized an impromptu parade, and the "army" was taken on a triumphant tour up the Perkiomen valley.

Then he mentioned that he had only $20 to see him through his furlough.

His $150 Stolen
"I'd saved up $150," he said, "and I wouldn't even spend a nickel of it when they let me go to see Naples, on account of this furlough coming up. Then while I was in Naples a pickpocket took it all."

That was soon remedied. The Northtown Times-Herald started it off with a $50 contribution, and the firemen chipped in $100. The newspaper said additional donations were coming in from all over the countryside.

The "army" doesn't care too much for this hero story. "I don't like to fight," he said, "but I guess the worst damned ordeal was when I got this medal. It's nice, but I had to stand there while General Clark presented it, and well I guess I'd almost rather fight."

Knappenberger won the nation's highest heroism award for holding off two German companies counter-attacking on Anzio. He covered his comrades' retreat to the rear until he ran out of ammunition, then moved back took more ammunition from the body of a fallen American, and began firing again. He was credited officially with killing sixty Nazis.

Hoover Is 70

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 9 (AP)—Tomorrow is Herbert Hoover's 70th birthday, but the Republican former president says there'll be no celebration.

HAPPILY PICTURED IN WASHINGTON with their families were the late Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. "One Man Army" Returns Home To Surprise "Mom"

SPRING MOUNT, Pa., Aug. 9 (AP)—The "one man army of Anzio" had a firm hold on the home front beachhead tonight.

To sum up, Pfc. Alton W. Knappenberger, winner of the Congressional medal for wiping out sixty Germans on the Italian front, was back with "mom" for twenty one days.

He's Not Broke Now
He no longer was broke, as he was when he arrived, but had more money than he did before a Naples pickpocket lifted his wallet the day before he shipped home.

He had passed through the first community celebration and had nothing on the calendar but looting and fishing until the next big blow-out on Aug. 20.

The 20-year-old, 120-pound, five-foot-four farm boy arrived last night on an unheralded furlough, so surprising his mother, Mrs. Harvey Seibert, that she burst into tears.

The Springfield Motor Fire Company, just across the road from Knappenberger's home, organized an impromptu parade, and the "army" was taken on a triumphant tour up the Perkiomen valley.

Then he mentioned that he had only $20 to see him through his furlough.

His $150 Stolen

"Killer" Huff, Back on Furlough, Wants To Reach Home by Parachute

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 9 (AP)—Staff because I could hit squirrels with my rifle," he stated. "I'm a pretty good shot."

German troops learned that fact the hard way. On Feb. 8, 1944, near the Italian town of Carano, the today expressing a hope that he could drop in on his home town at Cleveland, Tenn., by parachute.

The heroic soldier, abashed by the acclaim and attention shown him, exposed five yards and killed the crew of a machine gun, with his tommy gun, turned the captured gun on other enemy positions and drew fire from all of them. He observed their positions and strength, returned to his own lines and immediately led another patrol against the German house, routing 125 men, killing twenty seven and capturing twenty.

Huff, who rates salutes from everyone from full generals down to buck privates when he wears the nation's highest decoration, is an iron-spoken Tennessee who was a railroader and chair factory worker before the war.

Germans in Brest Refuse To Give Up

By JAMES M. LONG

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 9 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's whirlwind wedges rushed without check on the last 100 miles toward Paris tonight after sweeping through Le Mans and forcing the die-hard defenders of Brittany's sea fortress of St. Malo to knuckle under in surrender.

The capture of St. Malo, whose defenders had been ordered to fight to the last man, was reported in field dispatches. Never before had it been taken, though it had been the scene of many sieges in the middle ages. The historic fishing village and resort on the north coast was perched on an island connected with the mainland by a defended causeway.

Tanks Beyond City
The official announcement of the complete occupation of the auto manufacturing city eighty-five miles east of Rennes made it clear that American tanks were well beyond the city and German news agencies reported the fast spearheads were only eighty-seven miles from the French capital.

There was no Allied confirmation that Bradley's juggernaut had scored this further advance of twenty-three miles from Le Mans — but it might be possible as the Americans had not yet run into anything like solid resistance.

There still was no indication where, short of Paris, the Germans might be able to check the storm of American steel which in a little more than two weeks had swept over an arc of 200 miles from St. Lo, through Avranches, Rennes, Laval and Le Mans.

Brest Still Under Attack
Behind the streams of machines plunging eastward, the American battering ram opened an assault on Brest at the western tip of Brittany, beginning a rear door attack on the outer defenses when the garrison of the French naval base rejected an offer by the American commander to accept its surrender.

Seventy miles north of Le Mans the Canadian First Army in a great dual thrust steadily pried open a second doorway barely 100 miles from Paris, breaking cleanly through the Germans' first and second lines of defense and advancing to a point sixteen miles below Caen.

The Canadians, springing open the German bars in a total advance of eleven miles in two days, were within four miles, or easy gun range, of Palaise, a communications center position at the northern end of the Normandy battle line.

Le Mans Historic City
Le Mans — where Wilbur Wright made his first airplane flight in Europe in 1908 and where Henry II, the first Plantagenet king, was born — was firmly occupied by infantry, battle dispatches said, which came in the wake of armor and surprised the Germans in the act of hastily fortifying the Barthe river crossing.

German reports that the Americans were driving east and south-east past Le Mans — through which might be menacing Tours, a Loire river city, forty-seven miles to the southeast, and Orleans, also on the Loire seventy-eight miles east of Le Mans — were not verified here.

But it was clear the American spearheads deepened toward Paris were spaced along a broad front of nearly eighty miles, threatening (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

FDR May Act In Truck Strike
WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—A decision in the growing Midwest truck strike, possibly by President Roosevelt himself, may be handed down within the next forty-eight hours, a high government figure said tonight.

A source close to the White House, asking that he remain anonymous, indicated that the case, certified July 12 by the War Labor Board as beyond its powers to solve, now has cleared all the agencies concerned and a solution has been hit upon.

There was a strong hint of seizure of the tied-up truck lines and operation by the army or the Office of Defense Transportation. Such a course must be decided by President Roosevelt.

The strike, spread through eight states, has been joined by about 25,000 drivers. The army said here today. ODT officials heard from their Chicago office, however, that all strike movements are proceeding on schedule, except that in Omaha, Neb., "military protection" was ordered to stand by. This was not explained.

Leon Hosking, secretary of the Midwestern Truck Operators Association, meanwhile said he was leaving Washington, because "I've done all I can do here."

What Made Our Invasion a Success?

With 57 blue stars on our Service Flag, our town's been mightily excited over the way things are progressing on the Continent.

"Shucks," says Bob Newcomb happily, "I knew we were going to lick them Nazis, soon as the invasion started."

"I knew it before that," says Doc Hollister. "I knew it from the way our boys were getting along with their British buddies in those English camps. They had a lot of differences to overcome before they could work together as a team. And they overcame 'em."

From where I sit, Doc's mighty right. The success of our invasion began months ago—when the English Tommies and the GI Joe's got together over friendly beer, and games of darts—and learned to like each other in spite of differences in tastes and habits.

And that spirit of tolerance and understanding between men and nations will go far towards building a secure Peace, too.

Navy Furloughs Rubber Workers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The navy reported today that it is placing on inactive duty and returning to the rubber industry "a number of rubber workers skilled in the building of tires."

The army last week announced a similar plan of furloughing former rubber workers to assist in increasing badly needed heavy tire production. In addition, war production board officials are seeking a moratorium on factory working practices which they say have hampered production.

"The shortage of these (airplane and heavy duty) tires is entirely a question of manpower, particularly physically qualified and trained tire builders, millmen, calendar operators and vulcanizers," Rubber Director Bradley Dewey, wrote to Navy Secretary Forrestal.

The navy said that the men will be made available to the plants where they formerly worked and all will be over 30 years of age.

The navy added that it "has not as yet" recalled any tire workers from overseas.

Ickes Demands End Of Wildcat Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Secretary Ickes demanded today that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and R. E. Taggart, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company do something to halt a five week wildcat strike of anthracite miners in Shenandoah and Mahanoy City, Pennsylvania.

In a letter to Lewis, the secretary said this unauthorized strike, plus the refusal of miners at the Locust Summit collieries in Pennsylvania to work on Saturdays from May 20 to August 5, have lost the nation more than 300,000 tons of anthracite—"enough to supply the annual fuel requirements of 30,000 homes."

"In my opinion," Ickes said, "nothing can justify the actions of the parties who are responsible for this serious blow to our nation's welfare at a time when every citizen should be doing his utmost to bring the war to a quick conclusion. I have called these matters to your attention before."

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP)—Dr. C. H. Halliday, head of the bureau of communicable diseases, said that three cases of poliomyelitis had been reported today, but added that in Maryland, "the daily figures are fairly well stabilized."

Commenting on a report that twenty-one cases had been recorded in Virginia yesterday, Dr. Halliday said that the highest number recorded here was eleven last Monday. Five of those cases were in Washington hospitals.

Dr. Halliday expressed the belief that the break in the weather may have caused a halt in the disease.

Baltimore Plant Damaged by Fire

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP)—Fire damaged the interior of a Baltimore bedding manufacturing establishment today, destroying at least six sewing machines and numerous completed mattresses and springs.

Fifteen employees fled from the Allied Bedding Manufacturing Company plant when the blaze was discovered by a worker.

Norman Martin, factory superintendent, told police the fire apparently started in a load of felt stacked in a hallway in the building. Smoke from the felt, used to stuff mattresses, spread over the surrounding neighborhood.

Brownell Asserts
Republicans Will Gain in Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 9 (AP)—Kentucky Republicans will elect a United States Senator and at least two more representatives in the November general election, Herbert Brownell, Jr., of New York, national GOP chairman, predicted at a press conference here.

Brownell said a number of Kentucky New Deal leaders had bolted their party ranks and were working actively for the election of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Gov. John Bricker of Ohio as the next president and vice president.

Hapless G. I. Gets Deserved Break

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP)—The hapless G. I. who always brings up the rear in the chow line—and gets smaller portions—at last is getting a break.

It is at the expense of the "chow-hounds", the Third Service Command said today, for the command has ordered a survey of portions at army messes in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia with the idea of equalizing them.

Command headquarters directed cooks and butchers to do everything in their power to see that the portions of food were made equal during this week—"portion control week."

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes ordered adoption of the program after it was found that cafeteria serving lines were apt to start with generous portions for the first men and too small helpings for the last.

Col. Wayne M. Pickels, command service director, said messes serving family style posed an even harder problem in portion control, but he has the answer to that one in the assignment of non-commissioned officers to each table.

The non-com is the last to receive his food—and it's a bold buck private who'll try to cheat a sergeant.

Why Aren't Some Dropped Now?

REPRESENTATIVE ROBERT RAMSPECK, Democrat, of Georgia, is out with a statement that some 3,000,000 will be dropped from the federal pay roll within a year after the war ends.

Representative Ramspeck's prediction was made in connection with an announcement by the Civil Service commission the day before of an order in which employees would be discharged, as reductions became necessary, in the postwar period.

What is all this, anyway—an attempt to cover up or offset the recommendations of the Byrd committee in view of the approaching election? Of course a number of civilians should be dropped from the federal pay roll after the war ends for the simple reason that their work will be ended. But will they, if the present pay-roll padding administration continues in power unless they are forced to, as has been the case in past years when some were dropped after election only to have re-hired at the onset of another election?

What concerns the burdened taxpayers and citizens who are apprehensive over the abuse of the appointive power in campaign times is why several hundred thousand useless civil employees not engaged in work connected with the war effort are not dropped now, why they have not long since been dropped, as variously recommended by the Byrd committee.

On June 18, 1943, the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, after a careful investigation and public hearings, recommended in a detailed report that an immediate reduction be made in civilian federal employees to the extent of at least 300,000.

November 22, 1943, an additional report was made indicating the methods that could be used to effect these reductions.

The reports showed that on April 30, 1943, civil service payrolls of the executive branch numbered 3,003,569 and Senator Byrd reported to the Senate June 23, 1943, that the number had grown to 3,305,460, a progressive increase having been registered during the first months of the year.

Senator Byrd's committee renewed its appeal this June that in lieu of action by the administration, he purposed asking the Civil Service commission to hold hearings on a resolution authorizing and directing the War Manpower Commission to take action, within thirty days, for "an immediate reduction of 300,000 in the aggregate number of full-time civilian employees of the United States in or under the executive branch of the government on June 30, 1944" for an early report to Congress with recommendations for mandatory reduction.

It is the order by the Civil Service commission an attempt to shunt the demand pressed by Senator Byrd? The senator will likely clear that up in short order.

Kilgore-Murray Bill Should Be By-Passed

FORMIDABLE OBJECTIONS have been registered against the Kilgore-Murray industrial demobilization and reconversion bill, which the CIO is attempting to drive through Congress.

The bill is an omnibus measure, covering a wide variety of subjects, and it is the strategy of the labor lobbyists to jam it through as such, thus preventing sufficient opportunity to give separate and adequate consideration to the different subjects on the basis of individual merit.

The measure is a clash between state and federal authority with principal emphasis on the latter.

One provision authorizes compensation payments ranging as high as $15 a week to persons for whom the federal government does not find "suitable" work. No state unemployment system pays anything like such sums. Wherefore the bill would supplement the state unemployment reserves, now aggregating some five and a half billions, with grants from the federal treasury.

Any state refusing to make payments on the Kilgore-Murray scale would have its unemployment insurance system taken over by the federal government, which conforms to the Washington centralization idea.

Obviously the increased payments would continue for only two years after the war but once granted they would in all likelihood be continued for the simple reason that for too many people idleness would be almost as profitable as work.

Another section would authorize a federal work director to provide "any person" with six months of free vocational education, plus maintenance allowances up to $100 a month.

Another section would give free transportation to workers with their families and household goods to new jobs anywhere in the country. That certainly would make for stabilization of employment, which is a problem that has given so many headaches respecting war production manpower.

It is also proposed in another section to have a presidentially-appointed national production employment board and four regional councils to supervise postwar readjustment. They would be composed of members from industry, labor, agriculture and the public. The labor members, in accordance with the theory of President Thomas, as to his function on the WLB would represent themselves as working for the unions. Through political pressure on the administration, they could count on dominating the board and the councils.

One observer wonders whether this is a scheme to deliver to organized labor the planning of the national economy and the control of industry and agriculture, adding the conviction that it is "part and parcel of a scheme to kidnap the Democratic party and run the government."

The omnibus measure should be sold aside and Congress should take one by one, unemployment compensation and the various other subjects embraced by it that bear properly on demobilization of industries and war workers, giving special emphasis on the recommendations of the Baruch-Hancock report for the most specific re-conversion and re-employment.

As it is, the measure is objectionable on the score of two controls, one by a pressure group and the other through federalization.

A Self-Help Hint That Applies to Maryland

THE CLOSING SENTENCE of the statement prepared by the Republican governors' conference at St. Louis that "the states should recognize their responsibilities and use their reserves before asking federal aid on state public works" found application to the state of Maryland in the view of the Baltimore Evening Sun, which characterizes it as sound doctrine, not only for states with Republican administrations but also for those which the Democrats control.

"The wave of war prosperity," it says, "has bolstered the finances of most of the states. Nearly all of them have extra money on hand. (This is certainly true of Maryland, as the recent report of the state comptroller shows.)

"If these moneys are impounded and used for public works in the postwar period, such action will do a great deal to strengthen the state governments. But, if the moneys are dissipated, then the states will be under heavy temptation to turn to Washington for help, and they will move a step nearer to permanent financial dependence on the federal government."

It may be noted in the interest of accuracy that the extra money piled up by Maryland has not resulted altogether from war prosperity. It was piled up largely through excessive and unwise taxing policies, which public protests remedied, though only in part. But, however the state came by it, the point to be stressed, as the Evening Sun does, is that these states must show some capacity to help themselves for "if they try to carry their own responsibilities and plan to that end, as the St. Louis statement recommends, they may find before long that their dependence on Washington is not as great as they thought." And that is a fact.

A Corrupting Administration

"AN ADMINISTRATION which uses its power and the substance of its people to win the labor vote or the vote of any organized pressure group is a corrupting administration. Its power base is as bad as that of an administration which provides for the support of monopolies or any other vested interest."

This has reference to the Roosevelt New Deal administration, and it is from the Baltimore Sun. That administration has been guilty of using its power and the substance of its people—that is, the spending of the taxpayers' money—to win votes. It is, as the Sun declares, a "corrupting administration," and, being so, it should be ended by the voice of the people at the election polls in November.

Holding the Line Against Vote Losses

WHEN the Bankhead bill to increase price on textiles was before the Senate, OPA Administrator Chester Bowles and the New Dealers fought, tooth-and-nail, it was, they said, "highly inflationary."

But when the White House gave the word it needed more votes for the fourth-term drive, the New Deal compromised on price control and a bill was passed giving the OPA administrator power to grant increases where needed. Since that action was taken, several major increases in textile prices have taken place.

This is what is called "holding the line against vote losses."

The Nazis have just issued a map showing much Russian territory which is to be awarded by them to Romania. Whom, even the Romanians demand to know, do they think they're kidding?

A new kind of paper can be written on even when it is soaking wet. Just dandy for those folks who keep putting aside their correspondence to be taken care of on a rainy day.

How Do Mothers Know?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I've seen it happen a hundred times at least.

I've heard a mother say: "Something's the matter with Jimmy," or "I'm worried about Kate—she doesn't seem quite right to me."

But, sure enough, in about three days a little boy in bed with measles and a little girl is sniffling all over the place and cannot go to school because she has such a bad cold.

The father didn't know, but mother did. A doctor wouldn't have known, because neither was complaining, neither had any obvious symptoms of diseases at all. . . . But MOTHER knew. She's a great diagnostician.

Of course I know that this sounds romantic and sentimental and ridiculous. And I know that some mothers know very little about their children, either in sickness or in health. They may worry, but never intelligently; they love their children but their love is of little use to the child.

But some mothers, modern mothers, know their boys and girls so well, know every little trick and turn of their temperaments so exactly that they can't be fooled.

They aren't fussy! They really do know their jobs. And I've often wondered how they can know so much. Fathers are rarely like that; they worry uselessly and waste their emotions. But mothers develop a knack, through some mysterious faculty of the mind, of being apprehensive at the right moment. They KNOW when their children are in danger and they make no mistakes.

I suppose that no man on earth will ever understand how some mothers can know so much. But many a man would wish he knew as much about his job as his wife knows about hers.

ELIMINATING THOSE THEY CAN'T TRUST

Cleavage on Reconversion Bill Stresses Issue Raised by Governors, Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

The opening phase of congressional action on reconversion deals mainly with one grand division of this complex and literally stupendous problem—carrying for the transition of workers from war industry to peace industry. About the objective, the payment of unemployment grants during such interval of enforced idleness as there may be, there is general assent. But about the method, there is cleavage of thought. And this cleavage is related to a principle dealt with at the recent conference of Republican governors—the proper division of functions between the state government and the federal government.

One school of thought holds that to the greatest degree practicable, the administering of unemployment funds shall be done by state governments. This is made somewhat difficult by the fact that some of the funds must come from the federal treasury, since few states or none have sufficient revenue to provide the amounts of money that may be necessary. To meet this situation, it is proposed that the federal government advance money to the states, to be repaid later. This is not novel, it is done in other fields in which state and federal functions overlap.

Several Arguments

For the insistence that the administering of postwar unemployment grants be done by the states, there are several arguments, most of them based on principles pointed out by the conference of governors. One is, that the administering of unemployment grants, like other functions of government, would be done more economically and efficiently when carried on by state governments, which are closer to the people, easier for the people to understand, and to change.

Administrative unemployment grants would be an addition to the functions of the federal government, and an addition to the number of its employees. The mere size of the federal bureaucracy, much of it spread throughout the country, has come to be looked on with apprehension by some students of government as a science, and some observers of government in practice. It is pointed out that in some states the number of federal employees, deriving their authority from Washington, is as much as five times the number of state employees who carry on the state government. Governor Griswold, of Nebraska, has expressed real concern over the presence of federal officials and employees in state capitals and county court-houses.

Granted that the administering of unemployment grants would require the services of a certain number of officials and employees, it is argued that it would be better if these are divided among the forty-eight states, getting their authority from and owing their allegiance to, state governments, rather than to Washington. This argument is based frankly on apprehension of the political power of bureaucracy. If those who administer unemployment grants get their appointments from the states, they will be divided in their partisanship. At present twenty-six states have Republican governors and 22 have Democratic.

Votes Accompany Grants

Another argument for state administration rather than federal has to do, not with the officials who do the administering, but with the beneficiaries who receive the unemployment grants. They will be grants, hardly the same as ordinary unemployment insurance, which is paid for by the worker or his employer over long periods. And recent experience has shown that many persons who receive the grants from government tend to give political loyalty to the administration through which the gift came. It was so with several of the relief agencies set up during the depression. Political leaders in big names found that in elections beneficiaries of relief and their families tended strongly to support the administration in power—the condition was expressed by ex-Governor Smith, of New York, who said, in effect, that the beneficiaries of Santa Claus will not vote him out of office.

This being human nature, it is held better that the gratitude of beneficiaries of unemployment grants should go toward forty-eight separate state administrations, rather than toward one at Washington. Not only would the gratitude be diffused, it would be non-partisan, going toward the Republicans in twenty-six states, the Democrats in twenty-two states.

Primaries Show World Co-operation Is Not at Issue

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The heavy toll in the primaries reflects some dogged, desperate, intense fighting which does not appear on the surface.

Congressmen returning from the political battlefields back home continue to report little public interest. One senator says people thought it an imposition for him to talk at all. They did not listen to speeches, and voting everywhere is light.

Yet those citizens who are primarily interested in politics, and also those who make it their trade, are anything but apathetic, judging from the substantial mortality rate.

Causes Varied

Interpretations are difficult and confused. Some authorities are interpreting the recent defeat of well-known Senator Bennett Clark to his isolationism. It may have been that, but it also may have been an accumulation of personal things which damaged his popularity, possibly also the fact that he was in with National Chairman Hannegan now, which seemed a slight change of character for him.

Most probably, the influence of a St. Louis newspaper was important against him, claiming he would vote against any postwar settlement because of his father's grudge against Woodrow Wilson. I suspect it was mainly because he was seldom on the job.

Familiar Colton Ed Smith's defeat was attributed to his opposition to the New Deal (and unquestionably the New Deal won that race).

but I suspect the fact that he is over 75 years of age had much to do with it. He just could not organize as he formerly did against the long-planned New Deal bill organizing of Olin Johnson.

Senator Rufus Holman lost in Oregon, and this too is said to be a victory against isolationism, but it also may have been due to personal prestige.

Score Stands Even

As far as isolationism versus internationalism is concerned, the score so far stands exactly even. Defeated or not running for reelection are the so-called anti-internationalists, Clark, of Idaho, and Reynolds, of North Carolina, as well as Holman and Clark, of Missouri.

But the successful list of anti-internationalists includes Nye, Gillette of Iowa; Gurney, of South Dakota; Tobey, of New Hampshire, (and notably Representative Ham Fish, whose victory is attributed mainly to the personal sympathy engendered by his heavy opposition which made him an underdog); Mrs. Caraway, on the other hand, who supported the FDR policy, was defeated.

What this plainly shows is that the argument is dead. This was evident before the primaries, in fact before the war when both Nye and Tobey announced they were for world co-operation.

The stands taken by Roosevelt and Dewey for the national fray also show the only remaining argument may develop between idealistic or practical co-operation with the world, not whether there should be co-operation.

False Symptoms Read

Many false symptoms, therefore, are being read into the results. Two real ones stand out truly, in my opinion. Primaries are largely organizational fights.

The man with the best organization usually wins, especially when voting is light and interest low.

It is plain from the results that inner political organization has developed far beyond what we have known before. (This will be true also nationally with Dewey spending the bulk of his labors so far in organization, and Democratic Chairman Hannegan calling for house-to-house canvasses.)

But wherever the organization explanation does not hold true, the heavy turn-over is a sign people are thinking things out, for a change. The thoughts of most citizens may be across the seas, but those who have enough direct interest in primaries to cast a vote seem to have made it their business to know who stays on the job in the Senate chamber and whose prestige in the Senate is high.

Roosevelt Urged Reduction in Arms, Lawrence Reminds

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Two days ago attention was called in these dispatches to the misrepresentation by Republicans concerning President Roosevelt's pledges in the campaign of 1940 about sending troops abroad. But there are misrepresentations being made by the Democrats concerning the acts of a Republican administration that would seem to be equally unfair.

Thus, Democrats are beginning to say that "the Republicans sank the American navy in 1922." At the Democratic convention in Chicago last month, Governor Kerr, of Oklahoma, in his keynote speech as temporary chairman, said:

Stated by Kerr

"Shall we restore to power the party whose national leadership, under the domination of isolationists, scrapped and sank more of our fleet than was destroyed by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor? Or can we fail to support the Democratic administration under which America has become the greatest naval power on earth?"

The idea that the Republicans "sank our navy," has no basis in fact. The American delegation to the conference in 1922 at which an agreement was reached among Great Britain, the United States, Japan and France to reduce naval armament was composed of Democrats as well as Republicans. When the treaty was presented to the Senate every Democrat voted for it. In fact the vote was virtually unanimous. It was 74 to 1 and the only dissenting vote was cast by Senator Joseph France, of Maryland, Republican.

Consistent Policy

The effort to reduce armament has been a consistent American policy through Democratic as well as Republican administrations. President Roosevelt, in a letter written to Norman Davis, chairman of the American delegation to the naval conference at London, gave on October 5, 1934, an outline of American policy. That letter was made public on December 9, 1935, by Mr. Davis at the first session of the London Naval Conference, and it quoted President Roosevelt.

"In asking you to return to London to continue and expand the conversations begun last June preparatory to the naval conference in 1935," the letter stated in part, "I am fully aware of the gravity of the problems before you and your British and Japanese colleagues. The object of next year's conference is to frame a new treaty to replace and carry out the purposes of the present treaty."

The purposes themselves are to prevent the dangers and to reduce the burdens inherent in competitive armament and to carry forward the work begun by the Washington Naval Conference and to facilitate progressive realization of general limitation and reduction of armament."

Milestone in Civilization

"The Washington Naval Conference of 1922 brought to the world the first important voluntary agreement for limitation and reduction of armament. It stands out as a milestone in civilization."

"It was supplemented by the London naval treaty of 1930, which recognized the underlying thought that the good work begun should be progressive—in other words, that further limitation and reduction should be sought.

"Today the United States adheres to that goal. That must be our first consideration."

"I ask you, therefore, at the first opportunity to propose to the British and Japanese a substantial proportional reduction in the present naval levels. I suggest a total tonnage reduction of twenty per cent below existing treaty tonnage. If it is not possible to agree on this percentage, please seek from the British and Japanese a lesser reduction—fifteen per cent or ten per cent or five per cent. The United States must adhere to the high purpose of progressive reduction. It will be a heartening thing to the people of the world if you and your colleagues can attain this end."

Basic Philosophy

Thus it will be seen that President Roosevelt not only indorsed the work of the naval limitation conference of 1922 but actually urged that limitations be continued and further reductions be made. This of course was the basic philosophy of the United States under both Republican and Democratic administrations. The American idea was best expressed by President Roosevelt in that same instruction to Mr. Davis: "Excessive armaments are in themselves conducive to those fears and suspicions which breed war. Competition in armament is a still greater menace."

When the foregoing was made public, the Japanese had already served notice of their intention to terminate the naval limitation treaty of 1922, but it was not to take effect until the end of 1936.

It was in a last desperate effort to prevent the treaty of 1922 from being scrapped that President Roosevelt made his final appeal.

But it would be a grave mistake for the Democrats to try to make a partisan issue out of the disarmament conference of 1922 which was indorsed at the time by Democrats as well as Republicans and this indorsement was reiterated by President Roosevelt himself as late as 1934 and 1935.

STATEMENT

to the Citizens and Taxpayers of the City of Cumberland, Maryland

As your Commissioner of Streets and Public Property, I wish to submit to you the following statements and the financial standing of the various departments which come under my commission:

	Appropriation	Balance as of July 31, 1944
Streets and Alleys	$ 44,000.00	$ 32,244.21
Street Cleaning	28,000.00	16,863.04
Sewers	16,000.00	11,644.46
Warehouse	2,500.00	1,701.34
Parks	3,000.00	1,141.24
Playgrounds	7,000.00	4,499.76
City Hall	6,500.00	5,267.08
City Hall Annex	6,500.00	5,624.10
Constitution Park	8,000.00	4,843.87
Engineering	21,000.00	15,980.25
Airport Maintenance	9,000.00	7,744.82

I wish particularly to call your attention to this last item, Airport Maintenance, which has much to do with the following report.

When I took office, April 3, 1944, Mr. Charles F. Heller was on the City payroll filling the position of Superintendent of Construction, at a monthly salary of $192.50. This salary was being paid through the General Improvement Bond Airport Fund, and not through my appropriation. Mr. Heller's duty, as I understand, was superintending two laborers at 66c per hour each, and working forty hours per week.

On July 13, 1944, these two above named laborers were layed off airport construction and were placed in the Street Department. Mr. Charles Heskett, Airport Director, requested me to place these men in my department.

On July 16, 1944, without my knowledge or the recommendation to me by Mr. Heskett, Mr. Heller, being both his own superintendent and timekeeper, placed himself on my payroll as Superintendent of Construction.

As my departments are not doing construction work, and as I am already provided with a Street Superintendent whose duties are those of maintenance, I most certainly have no place for two such superintendents. Therefore, on July 31, 1944, I advised Mr. Heller by letter that the position of Superintendent of Construction had been abolished as of that date. I want it to be definitely understood that I did not dismiss Mr. Heller. I simply abolished a position that had become non-existent, and Mr. Heller still had the right to assert his seniority in so far as Civil Service is concerned. Mr. Heller has been on the City payroll since April, 1934, and has in that time received many different rates of pay, ranging from $160.00 per month to 60c per hour, and up as high as $192.50 per month.

I wish, further, to bring to your attention an Order dated August 7, 1944, presented to the Mayor and City Council by Commissioner James Orr signed by Mr. Orr. This order, which created and provided for Mr. Heller a position named as Superintendent of Maintenance of Airport, was passed by a vote of three to two, Edwards, McDonald and Orr voting in the affirmative and Mayor Post and myself in the negative.

This order provided a salary of $175.00 per month, plus the regular 10% which makes an actual monthly salary of $192.50. This order was passed over my personal protest and the protest of Mayor Post, and has established a new precedent in the fact that Orr, Edwards and McDonald have voted the use of my appropriation and not their own, and have at the same time ignored the Civil Service Board by dismissing Mr. Heller from one position and providing another position without the usual Civil Service set-up, or without referring the whole matter to their Board.

In concluding this statement, I wish to inform you that there are many, many expenses that have been kept obscured from public view, all of which have a tendency to increase rather than lower the costs of city operation and likewise the taxes. Providing a position at $192.50 per month, plus such other expenses as are incurred in driving to and from the airport (using 72 gallons of gasoline per month as against 42 gallons used in useful mosquito control in the same period), are symbolic of these expenses.

Regarding the Airport in general, I wish to advise you that there are still many things that are necessary before the City of Cumberland can claim this 'port as it's own. You have not been kept well informed by the Airport Director; you have not been advised that there exist certain easements against this airport, the records of which are on file at the Mineral County Court House, Keyser, W. Va. I have asked Mr. Heskett more than two months ago to get in touch with the owners of these easements and find out definitely just how much more the City of Cumberland will have to pay for something we thought we already owned.

Respectfully submitted,

HUNTER B. HELFRICH,

Commissioner of Streets and Public Property

District Governor Addresses Lions

Check on yourself and see if you and Lionism are helping to build a better world, the Rev. Donald F. Brake, district governor of Lions International, told members of the Cumberland Lions Club at their noon meeting yesterday in Central YMCA.

First, question yourself and find where you stand in relation to your fellow man and then seek to discover where you are in relation to the business welfare of the community, the Rev. Mr. Brake said.

Then, he added, look to your brothers who are not Lions and try to determine if they and the community as a whole are better off because there is a Lions club. "Are you an asset to the community or are you a liability?" he asked.

This same procedure can be followed through, he explained, until the question is asked "Has Lionism helped to make this a better country and a better world?"

A report on the Lions International convention held last week in Chicago was submitted to the club by Edgar D. Vandegrift, president, and Gilbert A. Rehbeck, secretary.

Low-Priced Utilities Register
Small Gains in the Stock Market

By GARETH MUCHMORE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—Low priced utilities and a scattering of industrial favorites improved modestly in the stock market today and gave the list a steady tone although trends remained somewhat uneven.

The power and light group lost some of its support in the final hour, but this was balanced by an easing of the selling pressure which had some of the recently active motors down as much as a point around mid-session.

Volume dropped a shade below the million-share mark and at 963,410 shares compared with 1,270,810 Tuesday.

Most active was the group embracing Columbia Gas & Electric, American Water Works, National Power & Light, Public Service of New Jersey, North American and Consolidated Edison, all of which advanced fractionally. These closed, however, under their best in most cases.

U. S. Steel tacked on 1/8, and other top-flight gainers in light turnover included General Motors, Chrysler, Standard Oil (N.J.), and Texas Co. American Telephone slipped 1/8, while Santa Fe, down much of the time, recovered to finish unchanged. Great Realty and Utilities was active and up 1/8 for a new high. Martin-Parr in a late rise also touched a new top for the year and gained 1/8.

Corn Belt Drought
Becomes Critical

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)—The war news took a back seat to reports of continued drought in the corn belt and damage to the crop in the grain futures market today.

Rye and oats, substitute feed grains, moved upward on the drought reports to regain some of their recent losses. There was little to encourage wheat buying, however, and prices closed mixed after being weak most of the session.

Paris Hears Big
Guns as Allies
Approach City

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press War Analyst

Substantially a third of the Seine and Loire basins are now within the 200-mile double arc of the Allied front across Northwestern France from the channel coast to that of the Bay of Biscay, completely cutting off both the Normandy and Brittany peninsulas.

By Nazi admission Canadians closing in on Falaise to the north and Americans thundering up the Loire valley beyond captured Le Mans in the south within 100 miles or less of Paris. The distant thunder of their guns must already be audible in suburbs of the city when westerly winds sweep up the great valleys.

the westerlies to tell of coming liberation.

It is not yet certain that Allied strategy does not now aim at an early and even more decisive victory in France than ousting German invaders from Paris.

A crisis for the German army, stubbornly resisting on the north and north-center flank in the Seine-Loire theater and weakly reeling backward under Yankee armored hammer blows in the south, is fast developing.

May Outflank Nazis

The scythe-like American sweep up the Loire valley could be pointed at Paris itself, or headed to by-pass the city and cross the Seine far inland to outflank its whole course to the sea. It could begin curling northward to get between the main German army and Paris and the Seine and destroy it in the field between a British-Canadian anvil and a many-headed American armored hammer.

There seems no question now that the foe in France has been not only out-numbered, out-gunned, out-planned, and out-fought, but out-gassed and out-generated as well. He cannot even now know the broad strategic design governing the ever widening and deepening Allied plan.

That he has neither the troops nor material to cope with so vast, fast and fluid an operation as over-front him is made patent in every front line dispatch. That the Nazi led German command in France is hampered by fanatical holding orders from Berlin that military experience cannot justify as well as being driven by Hitler's intuitive jealousy to suicidal and futile counter-attacks, is more than indicated.

Sergeant Tells Story of Battle With Japanese

By Technical Sgt. Pete Zurlinden, marine combat correspondent formerly Associated Press correspondent at Annapolis, Md.

SAIPAN, MARIANAS ISLAND (Delayed).—Next to his rifle, a marine's best friend is the navy hospital corpsman.

This was proven during the battle for Flame Tree Hill. "Damn! This was a front-line skirmish that was hotter than the Fourth of July."

Flame Tree Hill was the first objective in the battle for Garapan. For a solid week it had been subjected to an artillery and mortar pummeling that all but shook the fifty-foot, dome-like hill out of the ground.

But the Japs didn't budge. Marines advancing in the front echelon, flanking Garapan's governor's mansion, legislature park and gardens, found that out quickly. The enemy was everywhere. In the high grass just beyond the hill, in caves along the slopes, in earthen pillboxes at the base.

Machegun fire swept over our heads as we moved in. We replied in kind—with machineguns, automatic rifles, grenades, bazookas.

It was a fast, furious scrap. Marines ran full tilt to the Japs and assaulted them. They were everywhere, with everything at their command. Tanks poured direct hits from their big guns into the compounds. But none of us ever saw a Jap.

"Then it was over. The din subsided."

A marine came running back. The left side of his jaw was pulled out. "Damn! He put me in the hospital!" A grenade had been thrown. His jaw was broken. But the thing that had him buffaloed was that a corpsman had ordered him out of the line.

"I told him to forget it," the marine said. "But my lieutenant told me to come out. Just when the Japs were coming out in threes and fours waving sabers and hollering 'Ban-zai.' Lord, they were easy pickins'."

The constant forward movement of leathernecks had concealed the fact that our little band had been hit. Frequently Corpsmen were everywhere. These little nuisance pockets of stubborn Japs could take a nibbling toll and Saipan was full of them.

The corpsmen worked low, bent as close to the ground as they could. They patched and poured sulfa powder on the wounds, then directed the handling of stretchers.

One youngster, a wound in his chest was raised to be carried down the hill and back. He was barely lifted in the stretcher before he cried "please! please! please!"

His corpsman ordered him lowered immediately. Shifting his head a bit, the marine then told the stretcher bearers to try again. There came a faint sound from the wide-eyed marine as he was carried back to an ambulance.

Just ahead, another corpsman was attempting to pull a marine from a rocky shelf to a stretcher just below. He had just swung the man's legs down when the shot broke out, some kicking earth away. Just above the stretcher.

There were two other cases, too, but by the time we were ready to move again the wounded men had been taken out.

Women Prevent Strike Settlement

HOOVERVILLE, Pa., Aug. 9 (AP).—A group of militant women who barred the entrance to the Wilbur Coal Company mine, protesting against water supplied by the mine to this Somerset county community, prevented settlement of a three-day strike by about forty or fifty workers, a union spokesman said today.

Claiming the water was full of sulphur and "unfit to drink or bathe in," the women also said they would refuse to pack lunch boxes or wash the men until a new supply was found.

The spokesman for the United Mine Workers of America said the miners had previously voted to return to work tomorrow after the company said it would drill a new water well.

Mine officials declined comment.

Merchant Seamen Want Gas Rations

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP).—A Baltimore merchant seaman recently returned from a two-months voyage said today that men of the merchant marine were getting "a raw deal" by being denied gasoline rations similar to those granted members of the armed forces on furlough.

Ships' Cook Ruby M. Hoffman declared, "We regard this discrimination as unjust. Of course, we are not members of the armed forces, but our work is just as dangerous and a great deal of time is needed to train us for our sea-going jobs."

Members of the armed forces are allowed one gallon of gasoline a day up to thirty days while on leave or furlough. Office of Price Administration officials said.

Southern Railway Special Wrecked

CINCINNATI, Aug. 9 (AP).—The Southern Railway's Carolina Special was derailed forty-nine miles south of Cincinnati tonight. First reports to the road's offices here gave no information as to whether any of the passengers or crew had been injured.

The engine and four cars of the twelve-car train left the tracks, information received here said, but none of the equipment overturned.

A relief train was sent from Cincinnati to the scene, officials here said.

The train left Cincinnati at 9 p. m. (EST) for the south, via Lexington, Ky.

Ally Driving Japanese Out of Northeast India

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH SOUTHWEST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 9 (AP).—The Allied drive to push the last Japanese invaders out of Northeast India penetrated today to a point fifty-four miles south of Imphal, where Japanese rear guards were encountered.

It appeared likely that the last of the beaten Third-Third Japanese division would be chased over the Burma frontier toward Tiddim within another week, these retreating elements of the enemy still must pass Allied "shadow" troops lodged in their rear and harassing Tiddim road traffic.

In the Mogaung valley campaign in Northern Burma Allied troops striking down upon the Mogaung-Mandalay railway in the Taungtha area encountered heavy opposition at Tigyauzau, five miles north of Taungtha, and about ten miles southwest of Mogaung, air line.

In Burma's Kahaw valley east of Tannu Allied forces found evidence of Japanese panic in the abandonment of 200 motor vehicles on one five-mile stretch of road, along with guns of all calibers and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

A formal statement by Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell released at headquarters revealed that Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill, former commander of the noted "Marauder" detachment in Burma, has been appointed head of the liaison group for the China-Burma-India theater here.

Stilwell said the only reason for Merrill's relief was his health and revealed that Merrill had been hospitalized from March 31 to April 16 and again from May 20 to June 13.

Emphasizing a previous statement that Merrill's transfer to Kandy was not connected with an inquiry into reports of a breakdown of morale of the Marauders during the battle for Myitkina, Stilwell said:

"I considered it unfair to a valuable officer to ask further effort on his part which might have a serious, lasting effect on his health x x x."

"Gen. Merrill is a very high class officer and his unavailability in the field is very regrettable. My full confidence in him should be obvious from the duty he is now performing."

1,072 More Japs Killed by Yanks

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP).—Additional 1,072 Japanese have been killed in the Aitape sector of British New Guinea, headquarters announced today.

This is one of the heaviest battle tolls yet taken in that area. Americans have encircled Japanese front lines on the Drinihmo river.

Remnants of the Japanese Eightieth army trapped in the Wewak area who had attempted to break westward through American lines, now are on the defensive some twenty miles east of Aitape.

Headquarters also announced that an Allied Liberator bombed a 2,000-ton Japanese freighter off Davao, Mindanao, in the Southern Philippines Monday night.

Other Allied bombers raided Halmahera island between New Guinea and Mindanao, Yap island in the Western Carolines, and Sorong and Manokwari, weakened Japanese bases in Dutch New Guinea west and east of the American beachhead at Sansapor.

The Rev. Mr. Post is scheduled to arrive at the camp meeting August 11 and remain through the 20. Camp meeting starts August 11, under the ministry of the Rev. E. S. Brinkman.

The Post family was at their jungle station when Pearl Harbor was attacked and engaged in missionary work under The Christian and Missionary Alliance. They had seen changes in the lives of the natives when they became Christian and they saw the great awakening which came to many after the war threat faced them.

The Post's were given an opportunity to escape when the Japs were only days away. Their flight involved a hazardous journey of 250 miles by speed-boat to a secret air field, a trip by air to Java and from there they took a ship through submarine infested waters to America.

The speaker will also show stereotypical pictures of the work among the jungle people of Borneo and discuss the probable conduct of the Christian natives in this time of crisis. The Rev. Conrad Mickelson, local pastor, states that the series of meetings being held in Wardsville is designed to answer the question, "Are Missions Worthwhile?"

WESTERNPORT, Aug. 9 — Although she has been officially advised by the War department that her son Pfc. Charles T. Haines has been missing in action in Italy since July 9, Mrs. M. T. Haines, 20 Jones street, has hopes that he is alive and not a prisoner, largely because she has received a letter from him dated July 30, written on Red Cross stationery, indicating he may be in a hospital.

She has further hope as a result of information contained in a letter to Mrs. W. E. Clark, a neighbor, from her son, Pfc. C. W. Clark, who is in a hospital in Italy, who wrote that he had heard that Charles Haines was "doing O. K." Mrs. Haines believes he is in a hospital recovering from wounds, although she has not been so informed.

Yankee Maid Wins Trotting Classic

By ORLO ROBERTSON
GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)—Leaving no doubt as to her rank as the No. 1 three-year-old trotter of the year, the Kansas-owned and Kentucky-bred Yankee Maid today easily won the nineteenth Hambletonian as a crowd of some 15,000 welcomed the return of the harness horse classic to the rural atmosphere of Good Time park.

Driven by Henry Thomas for his third buggy trip title and owned by A. L. Derby, Wichita, Kas., oilman, the bay filly took the first heat by five lengths in 2:05 and won the second by four in 2:04.

Her superiority over ten rivals was tested seriously only once in the two trips around the sun-baked triangular track. C. W. Phellis's Emily Scott, of Greenwich, Conn., offered the daughter of Volomite an argument for a quarter-mile in the initial brush. Thomas then shot the Kansas Miss to the front and she won as she pleased. In the second heat it was the Maid all the way.

The crowd, one of the largest to see the classic in recent years at Goshen, made the Maid the favorite to take down the $18,467.42, the winner's share of the gross purse of $34,427.12. She paid the unusual odds of $3.90 to win, $5.00 to place and $3.90 to show in the first mile but for the second she was backed down until the across-the-board-figures read, $2.20, $2.40 and $2.50.

Rollie Hemsley Gets Draft Papers

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—Rollie Hemsley, veteran New York Yankee catcher, said today his draft papers had reached New York from his home in Vienna, Mo., and that he had been ordered to report for induction on Aug. 15.

Hemsley, in 1-A since spring, originally was to have reported last Monday for induction but his papers failed to arrive in time and it was thought that he might be with the club for much of the remainder of the season.

Hemsley is 37 and married.

Fairgo Feature Ends in Dead Heat; Betting Continues at Record Clip

Myrtle M., Wesley A. Share Honors in Wilson Memorial; Palumbo Tops Jockeys

Wagering at the Cumberland Fair Association's half-mile oval at Fairgo continued at a record-breaking clip yesterday but form players had something of an off day as only three favorites on the card of eight races crossed the wire in front.

The Robert C. Wilson Memorial, fifth and feature race of the second day, was one of the best with W. M. Richardson's Myrtle M. and J. Fred Adams's Wesley A. sharing top honors by finishing in a dead heat, the first of the current meeting.

Myrtle M. set a fast pace throughout the first three quarters of the mile and sixteenth route with Wesley A. coming up on the stretch to gain an even share of the winner's purse, Myrtle M. paid $13.10, $13.30 and $6.90; Wesley A. returned $8.60, $8.80 and $3.50, and Precious Years, which grabbed the show spot, paid $3.70.

Don Bingo II, backed down to four to five in the wagering on the strength of his five victories in his seven outings, never threatened after getting away to a slow start. He finished fourth after trailing the field at the halfway mark.

Palumbo Paces Jockeys
Preceding the race, Jockey Woody Sedlacek was thrown when Robert E. Lee surged out of the starting gate. However, Sedlacek apparently was uninjured and carried out his assignment.

Betting for the first two days of the 1944 season totals $332,640, or $125,831 ahead of last year's record-setting pace. The handle yesterday was $180,588, compared with $99,342 on the second day last year.

Sammy Palumbo surged to the front in the jockey race by riding two winners, a second and two thirds to bring his total number of points to twenty-four. Patsy Grant is a close second with twenty-two markers and leads in victories with four.

Woody Kirk and Johnny Tammara share third place with eighteen tallies.

Among the trainers, S. Green, Jr., T. Lewis and G. A. Cook are tied with two victories apiece.

Following the seventh race, G. E. Harris claimed Lady Divine, which finished second, from J. H. Van Wert for $1,000.

The heavily-favored First Family, ridden by Sammy Palumbo, defeated Wabamsee by a neck in the program opener. Oldwick was third.

Running the six and a half furlongs in 1:24.4, First Family returned $4.20, $3.00 and $2.90. Wabamsee, who ran a steady second, paid $5.20 and $3.90. Oldwick, a twelve to one choice, returned $6.70.

Fleetest, owned by N. Corbin, lived up to her name in winning the second. Making every stop a winning one, Fleetest crossed the wire four lengths ahead of the favored Yank Pilot. Gray Gull closed fast to show. The daily double combination of First Family and Fleetest paid $32.90 for $2. Fleetest, second choice in the wagering, returned $7.70, $4.00 and $3.50; Yank Pilot's payoff was $2.90 and $2.50, and Gray Gull paid $4.30.

Coming up on the final turn, Lena Girl, ridden by Tammara, took the third by two lengths with Clock Time second and the favored Fox Meadow third. Lena Girl, carrying the silks of Mrs. Mary Knierim, a local owner, was never worse than fourth. She rewarded her backers with $18.80, $6.50 and $3.30. Clock Time paid $5.50 and $3.20 and Fox Meadow returned $2.50.

A severe to one choice, Thespian set the pace from start to finish to win the fourth by a length with Cast Out taking runnerup honors and Pone capturing show money. Pone, six to five favorite, finished fourth after pushing Thespian for the second and third quarters. The mutual payoff was Thespian $16.90, $6.40 and $4.80; Cast Out, $5.30 and $4.50, and Pone, $4.80.

Favorites Win Last Two
Ray Arduini was aboard his second straight winner in the sixth as Sal's Sister, given a good ride by Washington, D. C. Italian, won by two lengths with Equipped second. Winning Smile, a full sister to Sal's Sister, was third. Sal's Sister, owned by A. J. Lacoste, returned $11.40, $6.40 and $3.30. Equipped's payoff was $6.80 and $4.10, and Winning Smile paid $6.70.

The three to two favorite, Ultima Thule, nosed out Lady Divine in a photo in the seventh with Olivio third. Grant, aboard the winner, kept the Mrs. T. Lewis mare in check until the final turn and she just had enough left to nip Lady Divine at the wire. The victor paid $5.00, $2.90 and $2.90. Lady Divine, $3.10 and $2.90, and Olivio, $3.50.

Durable became the third favorite to score on yesterday's program when it scored a length victory in the eighth and final race of the afternoon. Maroc was second and Time Play third. The payoff was Durable $4.10, $3.30 and $2.90; Maroc, $3.90, $3.00, and Time Play, $2.70.

TODAY'S FAIRGO SELECTIONS Browns Top Yanks

3-2 on Zarilla's Homer in Ninth

Jakucki, in Relief Role, Wins Tenth as St. Louis Extends Streak

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—Al Zarilla's fifth home run of the year with nobody on in the ninth inning gave the St. Louis Browns a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees today in the opener of a four-game series witnessed by 18,074 paying customers. It was the largest weekday crowd of 1944 at Yankee stadium.

Reliever Sig Jakucki, who finished up after Bob Muncie had given way to a pinch hitter in the eighth, received credit for his tenth victory and Hank Borowy was charged with his seventh setback.

St. Louis scored first in the fourth when Don Guttridge banged a 400-foot triple off the wall in left center and romped home on Mike Kreivic's infield single.

Nick Eiken put the Yanks out in front in the home half of the fourth with his twelfth homer after Hershel Martin walked. Borowy weakened to yield three hits and the tying score in the eighth on singles by Pinch Hitter Milt Byrnes, Guttridge and George McQuinn.

It was the ninth straight victory for the Browns and their thirteenth triumph in their last fourteen starts. The box:

Union Mining Firm Will Build Brick Plant in Jennings

Mt. Savage Plant Is Being Dismantled after 100 Years of Operation

Ground has been broken at Jennings, four miles south of Grantsville in Garrett county in preparation for the erection of the Garrett County Refractories Company plant, owned by the Union Mining Company, manufacturers of fire brick. It was learned yesterday from a reliable source.

It is understood that the new plant will replace the one which has been in operation at Mt. Savage since 1841.

The automatic kiln installed at the Maryland plant in Mt. Savage about three years ago at a cost of approximately $250,000 has been sold and Ben Waingold, operator of the Mt. Savage foundry, is now engaged in junking certain parts of machinery in the lower part of the yard, which is known as the No. 1 plant or hand furnace.

While officials of the Union Mining Company refuse to confirm or deny the report of its transfer of operations to Garrett county, the company is junking most of its plant in Mt. Savage and has started excavating for a new structure at Jennings. The section of the plant being dismantled contains thirty-five hand operated kilns. It is understood the new owners of the automatic kiln will continue to manufacture sawdust brick at Mt. Savage as this operation requires the employment of only three men on each shift.

Clay Was Imported

The supply of fire clay at Mt. Savage ran out some time ago and it has been necessary for trucks to bring the clay from Garrett county to the plant for the manufacture of bricks. At Jennings, it is understood, there is ample manpower, fire clay, coal and railroad siding, all of which would be advantageous to locating a plant in that area.

Excavating operations at Jennings are being carried on by the George F. Hazeltown Company, Cumberland contractors.

The Union Mining Company was first organized as the Mt. Savage Iron Works in 1839. Blast furnaces were erected and in 1841 the first steel mill was made in the United States. In connection with the rolling mill, a brick yard and foundry were built.

Fire clay was discovered in the mountains above Mt. Savage in 1839. Prior to this time, however, all brick for the use in rolling mills was imported because brick was not manufactured in this country.

Top Industry 100 Years

In 1841 the manufacture of brick was almost on par in the community with the rolling mill industry and when the iron works closed, the brickyard supplanted it and has been the leading industry in Mt. Savage for 100 years. The Marysville plant is located directly on the site of the old rolling mill and the blast furnaces are still standing behind it.

The automatic kiln, built three years ago, manufactures every kind of brick and is operated by fuel oil. At its peak the plant at one time employed 500 persons but less than 100 have been at work there in recent months.

Suspended Sentence Given Youth on Charge Of Siphoning Gasoline

A suspended sentence of six months in the Maryland House of Correction was given to Russell Laber, 17, 437 South street, in trial magistrates court yesterday on a charge of siphoning five gallons of gasoline from a truck July 29. The truck was owned by the Novick Transfer Company.

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., suspended the sentence on condition that Laber dispose of his car and go to work. The youth was arrested by Officers Edwin Lyle and James W. Brown early yesterday morning.

The cases of Darius Dietle, Grantsville, and Russell Carl Herpich, 316 Furnace street, a Celanese worker, were dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Bruce. Dietle and Herpich were arrested Tuesday on Route 220, two miles south of Cumberland, when the cars they were driving collided. Trooper Glen D. Folk preferred the charges.

Betty L. Robertson, Oldtown, a Celanese employee, was fined $9.50, including costs, on charge of assaulting her mother, Mrs. Gladie Robertson, August 7. The case was tried before Magistrate Frank A. Perdue.

LOCAL 1874 APPROVES GROUP INSURANCE PLAN

Local 1874 Textile Workers Union of America, last evening voted approval of the group insurance plan recently announced by the Celanese Corporation of America, John G. Thomas, business manager of the local, announced last evening. The local, Thomas added, will co-operate in every way to put the plan into operation.

Six members of the local were nominated to fill the position on the Executive board, made vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Eva Chaney. They are: Lauren Breedlove, Samuel Benson, James Martin, Mrs. Mary Grady, Carl Hinkle and Lester McCreary.

Playford Aldridge, John Estes and Michael Broderick were named as the committee to conduct the election August 23.

Allen Is Jailed

Held under $500 bond this morning when he was arraigned before Magistrate T. E. Pownall at Romney, W. Va., on a grand larceny charge. Presley B. Allen, 24, Green Spring, W. Va., was jailed in default of bond. Allen's case will be considered by the September grand jury. He was accused of taking $55 in cash from Ernest C. Kerns, 19, also of Green Spring, while riding in Kerns' car. Officers J. Carl Stouffer and Thomas J. See arrested Allen in Cumberland Monday night. Kerns left for induction into the armed forces Tuesday morning.

Over a six-day period recently 24,721 persons stopped on the sidewalk to look at the map, but no count was made of drivers who slowed up in passing to glance at it. A visitor from a much larger city remarked, "It takes a small town to show up the big cities. We have nothing like that for the public benefit."

Local Pilot Wears DFC, Air Medal After 48 Missions over Europe

Lt. Robert Hudson Is Home on Leave for Twenty-one Days

The Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with four Oak Leaf Clusters and the Mediterranean theater ribbon with two campaign stars adorn the left breast pocket of First Lt. Robert K. Hudson, pilot of "Holey Joe," one of the army air force's B-17 Flying Fortresses that has taken its share of flak over enemy-occupied Europe.

Lt. Hudson, 23, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur M. Hudson, 208 New Hampshire avenue, and he is home on leave now for twenty-one days after participating in forty-eight missions that included raids on practically every heavy target in Europe in the last six months.

The young aviator left the United States in February and ended up in Italy. It wasn't much later that he and the other nine members of "Holey Joe's" crew had earned the DFC.

Two Engines Shot Out

As Lt. Hudson, co-pilot on the mission, told the story, two of the plane's four engines were shot out by flak and a cylinder was lost from a third engine for the same reason in a raid over Europe. The bombardier, First Lt. James McCourtie, Akron, Ohio, and the tailgunner, Staff Sgt. Gregory S. Mangin, fifth ranking United States tennis player in 1933, were wounded.

On the two and one-half hour flight back to the base, the big ship scarred by 200 flak holes was attacked by six Messerschmitt fighters. "We got one of them and drove the other five away," Lt. Hudson said, admitting "they had us shaky for awhile."

The Air Medal was won for meritorious action while participating in combat missions over enemy territory and the four Oak Leaf Clusters came as the missions mounted up.

For missions that helped get the Allied drive started from Anzio to Rome, Lt. Hudson was presented his first campaign star and the second came from bombing raids over Europe on "D-Day" when the Allies invaded France.

Crew Wins Decorations

The decorations Lt. Hudson has won likewise have been presented to all other members of the crew. "We all have the same decorations," he said, "except for Purple Hearts."

Five members of the crew, including all the officers but himself, have won the Order of the Purple Heart, some of them with clusters for having been wounded more than once, Lt. Hudson explained.

He's convinced, however, that he led a charmed life, particularly when he recalls a window of the plane being shot out just four inches to the right of his face and windshield being shattered two feet in front of him on two different occasions.

"Holey Joe" got its name only after earning it, Lt. Hudson reminds, and that came after the plane had been shot up so much by flak, getting 200 holes on one other occasion besides the mission that brought the Distinguished Flying Cross. And other missions brought him flak holes, Lt. Hudson said, pointing out that the ship and crew "seemed to have a strange attraction for flak."

Bag Eight Planes

There were more than holes from fighter planes, he added, although the crew of "Holey Joe" is credited with destroying eight Messerschmitts and many more damaged and probables.

Lt. Hudson was graduated from Fort Hill high school in 1938 and had finished three years as a blacksmith apprentice at the Baltimore and Ohio bolt and forge shops when he was drafted into the air forces May 28, 1942, after completing the Elks Refresher course here.

He went directly into aviation cadet training, getting his pre-flight instructions at Santa Ana, Cal., his primary at Thunderbird field, Phoenix, Ariz., his basic at Pecos, Tex., and his advanced training at Douglas, Ariz.

Lt. Hudson's brother, Tech. Sgt. Wilbur L. Hudson, is stationed in Missouri with the signal corps.

Limit of $50 Is Placed on Currency From Other Nations

There is a $50 limit on the amount of currency—either American or foreign, or a combination of the two—which may be brought into the United States, Mrs. Louise C. Dean, executive secretary of the Allegheny chapter of the American Red Cross, announced yesterday.

Any currency over the $50 limit must be turned over to customs officers, and is forwarded by them to the Federal Reserve, Mrs. Dean said. Travelers may apply for release of these funds if they can explain to the department how they came into possession of the amount.

Persons leaving this country are advised to take no more than $50 in currency, and to use travelers' checks for anything over that amount. The object of the restriction is to prevent bringing into this country currency of countries looted by the Axis, and to avoid the development of a black market in such transactions, Mrs. Dean said.

Pvt. John R. Kilroy Receives Combat Award

Kilroy is a veteran of the New Georgia campaign and is a member of the infantry regiment which turned back the Japanese on Hill 700 in four days of intense fighting. More than 1,700 of Japan's Sixth Imperial Division were annihilated in the fighting.

Since starting his tour of overseas duty he has been stationed on New Zealand, the Fiji Islands and on Guadalcanal.

15 Tons of Tin Cans Collected On Opening Day

Canvass Nets One Gondola Carload; Drive Will Be Concluded Today

Fifteen tons of tin cans were collected yesterday in the area north of Baltimore street, Baltimore avenue, Greene street and LaVale and Bowling Green on the opening day of a two-day campaign sponsored by the Allegheny County Salvage Commission.

The first day's collection represented one low gondola railroad car full of tin after such non-acceptable items as rain spouting, broken packages, pipes, spout, curtain rods and fly sprayers were tossed out. These items are not wanted and should be put out for the garbage collector, Emmett A. Dougherty, tin can and wastepaper collector said.

The only salvage value in a tin can is the coating of tin which is taken off after it is sent to the detinning plant. Garbage can pipes and rain spouting are also and do not belong in a tin can collection, he added.

Cans are being loaded into a gondola on a siding in the rear of the Algonquin hotel. There's a big ramp at that point and it is impossible to load high cars there.

The collection will be concluded today when the area south of Baltimore street, Baltimore avenue and Greene street will be canvassed. Householders are urged to turn their tin cans on the curb in view of their homes before 9 a. m. Yesterday's collection got under way at that hour and was concluded at LaVale at 7 p. m.

Cucumbers Are Attacked by Two Kinds of Beetles

This is the twelfth in a series of articles on plant diseases and insect pests prepared for the benefit of vegetable gardeners by Ralph F. McCullough, county farm agent. This article deals with some insects and diseases that attack squash, cucumber, cantaloupe, pumpkin and other cucurbits.

Cucumber beetles are chewing insects. The striped cucumber beetle is about one-fifth of an inch long, with upper surface black and yellow with three longitudinal black stripes on each wing cover. The spotted cucumber beetle is about one-fourth of an inch long, is greenish yellow with twelve black spots. Adults feed on leaves and stems and larvae destroy roots.

Dust the plants with rotenone available or calcium-arsenate-pesticide dust. A spray containing arsenic such as pyrethrum also is effective. Apply the first coat or spray when the plants first come through the ground and make frequent applications thereafter. Plant must be seen and is needed and thin later.

If practical, place a screen cover or mosquito netting frame over young plants. These insects are very difficult to control. The whole plant must be covered or the insects will find places the dust or spray has missed and feed there. The material must cover top and under leaf surface, the stems and the ground around the stems. They will ride under cloths at the base of the plant.

Downy mildew is a fungus disease. Yellowish spots later become brown appear on upper leaf surface. Dust with calcium-arsenate-coppe-talc dust when disease appears and repeat at ten-day intervals. Disease is common in hot wet weather. On leaves, light brown spots appear on lower leaf surface, by leaf spot, a fungus disease, which enlarge and kill leaves. Treatment is exactly the same as for downy mildew.

With a virus disease, cause plants to become stunted and yellowed. Stems ooze droplets of redish gum or sticky sap. Treatment includes rotation of ground, pulling up and destroy diseased plants. Keep insects under control.

Both flags are made of cotton and when they wear out in five or six months they will be replaced by new banners by the Legion post.
